

2017 ORGANIZATION OF THE YEAR

Nominee: CityServe of the Tri-Valley

Nominator: Rev. Lawrence D'Anjou

In the Nominator's words:

I am nominating CityServe of the Tri-Valley as Organization of the Year.

CityServe of the Tri-Valley is a model of cooperation, bringing together business leaders, public and private organizations, and churches to help the neediest residents of Dublin, Livermore, and Pleasanton. Each day, City Serve Tri-Valley staff and volunteers are here to help those in need.

They provide an assessment of a situation and provide needs-based assistance and ongoing support. Depending on the individual's circumstances, CityServe of the Tri-Valley helps with food, clothing, car repairs, hotel stays; whatever they can do to help the individual. They have an outstanding relationship with local agencies, shelters, churches, and community support organizations, and are always looking for ways to do more for the needy and those in crisis situations.

CityServe of the Tri-Valley 's network of support helps take the pressure off cities and local agencies to do it all. Thank you for your consideration of CityServe of the Tri-Valley as Organization of the Year.
